Carlson Blasts Demo Tactics; YD's Hurtin'

The chairman of the Omaha University Young Republicans fired a verbal blast this week at Thomas Bonner, Democratic candidate for Congress.

Dr. Bonner is on leave of absence from the OU faculty while seeking to unseat incumbent Republican Glenn Cunningham from his Second District Congressional post.

Mary Carlson, head of the OU YR's, charged that Bonner backers, including OU geography instructor Roger Dunbier, have been using "underhanded tactics" in the campaign.

Arranged for Picketing

"Dr. Bonner and Mr. Dunbier arranged for picketing of a Cunningham rally by a group working under the pseudonym of 'Senior Citizens for Medicare,'" she said.

"I have learned," Miss Carlson said, "that the pickets definitely were planted by Bonner plotters."

"As a matter of fact," she said, "one of those pickets wouldn't know Medicare from a hole in the ground."

"Even in the heat of a campaign, such underhanded tactics are not excusable," she said.

Miss Carlson said the Bonner campaign is hurting "legitimate" political activity on the OU campus.

"His (Dr. Bonner's) friends at Omaha U have been able to keep the Young Democrats split to the point where it is obvious they are not an effective student organization on campus," she said.

The potential YD's at OU are putting all of their emphasis on the Bonner campaign, she said, "allowing the Young Democratic organization to disintegrate."

One of the three co-chairmen of the OU YD's, David Hoffman, confirmed Miss Carlson's charge.

66 Flu Shots Given So Far

Omaha U students and faculty seem to be more interested in their health than the Student Health Center realized.

Mrs. Ruth Eichhorn, Health Center nurse, said this week that the flu shot response was very gratifying. In October, so far, 66 shots have been given.

The cost of the shots is $1. If no shots have been taken before two shots are required; if the two shot series has been taken just a booster is required.

There is a two week waiting period between the time the shot is given and the time it becomes effective.

According to Mrs. Eichhorn, side effects are very simple if present at all.

If taken, the shots will protect all winter against the effects of influenza.

During the early fall, the Omaha-Douglas County Health Department announced that a flu epidemic was expected to begin in October or November so the earlier the shots are taken the better the chance of full effectiveness.

Official Notice

Students planning to graduate in January should pick up application forms in the Registrar's office in the Administration Building.

World Affairs Hits Mid-Point

The 17th Annual Institute of World Affairs will reach its halfway mark in a series of six lectures October 31st with a discussion of "The European Common Market" by Leonard Tennyson.

Mr. Tennyson, who since 1958 has been the Director of the European Community Information Service in Washington, D.C., will present his discussion at the University auditorium at 8:15 p.m.

A native of New York City, Mr. Tennyson attended Bowdoin College in Brunswick, Maine and spent four years during World War II in the Coast Guard and Naval Air stationed in the Pacific Theater.

Mr. Tennyson then was in the news business in New York City for two years followed by an additional two years in England. While in England he was a correspondent for the United Press, a writer for the London Observer and the British Broadcasting Corporation, and worked for NBC.

He was Information Officer for the Economic Cooperation Administration in Vienna, Austria, and Rome, Italy, from 1950 to 1953. Following this post he served as executive assistant to W. Averell Harriman for a year.

He has been serving the Common Market, the European Atomic Energy Community and the ECSC as the Director of the European Community Information Service in Washington, D.C. from 1958 to the present time.

Republican Rally

A Republican political rally has been scheduled for 3 p.m. Monday in the Eppley Conference Center at Omaha University.

Rep. Glenn Cunningham, an OU alum seeking another term in the Second District Congressional post, is definitely scheduled to appear, OU Young Republican chairman Mary Carlson said.

"There is a good chance," Miss Carlson said, that Fred Seaton, GOP candidate for governor, will appear.

Robert Denney, state chairman of the Republican Party, indicated he will attend the rally.

"Early indications are we will have an enthusiastic turnout," Miss Carlson said.

"The rally will offer OU students a prime opportunity to question the candidates and get their views on the current campaign," she said.

Dr. Dichter Predicts 10,000 In Peace Corps by 1963

Dr. Dichter, Peace Corps representative, said Peace Corps members have high physical and moral standards.

"By 1963 the Peace Corps will have 10,000 Americans overseas helping the world's undeveloped nations. Each one will be there by request from these nations," Peace Corps representative Dr. David Dichter said Wednesday at a coffee in the student center.

Dr. Dichter is speaking at various Midwestern universities trying to interest students in the Peace Corps.

While at OU Dichter also spoke at a luncheon in the Student Center and talked to classes during the day.

According to Dichter, the Peace Corps have high physical and moral standards, but a young college graduate with reasonably good health and a sincere desire to work with people under all conditions has a good chance of getting an assignment to the country he wants.

Fill Out Application

An application, obtainable from Dean Donald Pfisterer, should be filled out and submitted to the Peace Corps, Washington, D. C. prior to graduation.

Selected applicants will be given physical examinations and shortly thereafter sent to one of several universities for three months' intensive training, including about 200 hours of language instruction.

Peace corpsmen go directly from their training sites to various foreign countries where they're assigned to projects in the field.

Serve Two Years

Applicants must agree to serve for a period of two years, during which they are draft exempt.

Each person receives a living allowance roughly the same as an average worker receives in the country where he's assigned.

The Peace Corps especially needs people with practical skills such as teaching, home economics and training in various types of counseling, Dr. Dichter said.

Expansion for Closed Circuit TV Foreseen

Plans under consideration for the expansion of closed circuit television services have been announced by the Omaha University radio and television department.

These plans range from a state-wide, inter-university network to a six-state university network which is now in the planning stage.

Paul Borge, head of the OU radio-television dept., said that extensive studies have already been made concerning the possibility of a six-state educational network covering universities at North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin and Nebraska.

This network would enable the interconnected schools to exchange professors as well as other educational programs.

Don't Call Us Advice to Be Followed Now

Don't call us we'll call you. This advice was passed on to Bootstrappers this week.

Apparently some Armed Forces personnel have been calling Strategic Air Command to see if they were needed as a result of the Cuban situation.

No Bootstrappers have been called away from their books. There has been no official communication as to when or if they will be called up. This communication would come from government sources and would be sent to the individuals involved—not the school.

In the history of Bootstrapper program at OU there have been very few men called back to active duty. The men that were called held high powered posts and went back to them as a service to their country.

Roy W. Nolte, head of the Bootstrap program, said that there was no policy for Bootstrap withdrawal because of a national emergency. He said that "it has never come up so there is no policy."

Some students have reported that Bootstrappers have left tests without a word and haven't been back to school. Nolte said that if this happened the Bootstrappers probably didn't know the answers to the test questions. It wasn't because they were called back to active duty.

Nolte received a telephone call Wednesday afternoon from SAC saying that they "had no intentions of recalling anybody at the present time."

A Bootstrapper in a mass communications class said that he would gladly volunteer for active duty immediately—he has a test today.

Debate Teams Will Be At OU November 2-3

University and College debate teams from nine states will be on the OU campus November 2 and 3 to participate in the University of Omaha Discussion and Debate Tournament.

Twenty-nine schools representing Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, South Dakota, Missouri, Illinois, Wisconsin and Indiana will take part in the tournament.

This year's UCS drive is twice as big as last year's; therefore twice as much work is needed to reach the goal.

Funds for operation of these stations would come, in part, from state allocation, but mostly from the schools involved, according to Mr. Borge.

State Level

On the state level, a program under consideration would move the University of Nebraska television transmitter to near Gretna, Nebr., and the two universities would then serve as studies for educational and cultural programming broadcast on the air.

Mr. Borge said that with recent additions of equipment, the OU radio-television department "is in good shape to originate programs for these operations."

On the University of Omaha campus, possible expansion plans include the use of a closed-circuit television instruction in the new wing of the Applied Arts Building. This system would enable our instructor to reach as many as 40 students in the larger classrooms.

Mr. Borge said that another possibility is moving the OU television cameras into room AA-101, the large lecture hall, 800-900 Students

This would make a possible 800 to 900 students that could be reached by one instructor.

Borge added that as enrollment grows and the need arises, the closed-circuit broadcasting system could be connected to other campus buildings, thus, increasing the size of groups that could be taught by one teacher.

I added that his department is planning to offer an undergraduate course in cinematography, the production of film.

Two OU Grad Students Start East O Study

An Omaha University community survey class instructed by Phil Vogt is beginning a study of East Omaha to determine if additional community services are needed in that area. The study is being made at the request of the United Community Services.

Mr. Vogt said the survey will be conducted by a class of 26 under the direction of two graduate students, David Staffeld and Charles Arnold.

The study will include an inquiry into the physical, geographical, and economic aspects of the area which is bounded by Missouri River, the city dump, Eppley Airfield, and Carter Lake, Iowa.

The class will conduct a field study consisting of personal interviews covering 10 per cent of the area's households.

Supplementing this data will be information taken from all available city records, including the police department, Omaha public schools, health department, census bureau, and Chamber of Commerce files.

Arnold and Staffeld will assume responsibility for compiling and analyzing the data.

Mr. Vogt said he considers this an excellent laboratory for community research as well as providing facts for future planning programs. He said the study "will be most informative and helpful to civic and welfare officials concerned with improving the level of living in East Omaha."

The study is expected to be completed by next February.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

When I enrolled in Omaha University this fall, the last thing I expected was to be given a number—a nice, neat little number consisting of five digits.

I have a high respect for numbers, but I am prone to look with suspicion upon any agency of any government that numbers people for the sake of convenience.

It all started several years ago when I got my first after-school job. My employer said, "Son, you got to get a Social Security number." We filled out the necessary forms in triplicate, or was it quadruplicate, and sent them in.

In due time a little card arrived in the mail stamped with a number of nine digits. About then I noticed a small deduction from my weekly pay. Lesson one: when you let the government know you exist, you have had the course.

After I had worked for a number (there's that word again) of weeks, I decided I needed a car. In due time I passed my driver's test and received a license to operate a motor vehicle. The number consisted of 12 digits. Not a remarkable number really, but the way the State Troopers kept checking it you would have thought it was the combination to Fort Knox.

Somewhere around my eighteenth birthday I had to pay a visit to the Selective Service Board. Rather reluctantly, I might add, I was issued a number of 10 digits plus the caption "1A." This proved to be a problem when looking for employment.

Dear Editor,

I wish to take issue with a certain phase of student government and representation that is currently existing on this campus.

It is my opinion, as well as the opinion of others with whom I have covered, that the open person-to-person campaigning for candidates for various offices and positions of honor on this campus is a gross distortion of the candidate and what he or she represents.

I must point out at this time that I hold no contention with the personalities or organizations involved in this activity.

My contention deals with the fact that by dispersing groups of people to various points on campus on election day, and have them rather clumsily approach an individual, apply a smile not befitting their personality or intentions, and expound on numerous facts that, in an implied way, prove that the candidate they represent is best qualified for a particular position or honor, is not in good taste. Nor is it a true development of a personality or image.

To me, the sensible and fair way to provide information to the student body and all people participating in student government is to have the candidates themselves and only the candidates themselves do the campaigning.

On a campus of this size, this is the only way that I can see in which a fair, true, precise picture of the candidates can be presented. A candidate will then be held responsible only to himself for what is said, implied or mentioned about his convictions, actions, thoughts, qualifications, and personality.

Upon graduation from high school, I reviewed my class standing. I was top man in the lower half of the class. I quickly decided that it would be a close race to try for college deferment. So in a moment of madness, I volunteered—for the Army, yet.

The first thing they did was stamp me with a number of eight digits. This was the closest I ever came to being a complete number. At roll call, the sergeant would call out the last names of the troops and we would answer by calling out our serial number.

When I returned to the human race, I decided to take advantage of some of the veterans' benefits that a liberal Congress and a grateful civilian populace had been fit to bestow upon us. This time I got two numbers—one of eight digits from the Veterans Administration and one of six digits from the State Veterans Commission.

I must be some kind of nut or something for I applied to the Federal Aviation Agency for an airman's rating. After cutting my way through 99 miles of red tape, they issued me a license with seven digits.

Then my path and that of Omaha U crossed and they hung a number of five digits on me.

What I want to know is why five? Why not four or six? Why five which happens to be the number of digits the inmates of most prisons are issued.

It seems that a five-digit number is ideally suited for cross filing. Is this the reason a five-digit number was chosen at OU? Or is this someone's way of getting a message across?

Bill Sweeney

I have said what there is to say for the time being. Again, I feel it is your duty as manager of a voice of the student body to repeat what I have said in your medium, the GATEWAY.

David Busch

Sophomore, Liberal Arts.

Military Doesn't Need 3.0 Average

A misconception that Bootstrappers at Omaha University are required to maintain a three-point grade minimum was cleared up this week.

"Grade requirements are the same for Bootstrappers as for any other student," said Donald Z. Woods, dean of the College of Adult Education.

Dean Woods also pointed out there are some one thousand military personnel taking college credit courses from OU while they are stationed at Offutt Air Force Base and Lincoln Air Force Base.

The on-base courses are the same as many of those offered on campus," he said.

OU faculty members aid in the instruction of the on-base courses, he said.

"These courses are constantly being re-evaluated so that obsolescence may be avoided," Dean Woods said.

The Eppley Conference Center at Omaha University will be the scene of two conferences next week.

Scheduled for Thursday is the Nebraska Dietetic's Conference.

The 1962 annual Inland Bird Banding Conference has been set for the OU campus Saturday and Sunday.

Bootstrapper Organization Began in 1958

"To facilitate participation of the members in campus activities, to promote social activities of members in consonance with military custom and tradition, to serve as 'bootstrapper' representative to the faculty and other student groups, and to further promulgate military ideals and concepts among the student body."

The preceeding is a statement from the constitution of the group on campus known as the Society of the Pen and Sword.

The group is composed of those in the armed forces, either active or retired, who are attending Omaha U under the Bootstrap program.

The Bootstrap program began, on this campus in 1956 and from then until 1958 the Bootstrappers had a similar group known as the Bootstrap Organization.

Name in 1958

In 1958 the group took the name, Society of the Pen and Sword, and became an organized, functioning group on campus. The faculty adviser at that time and up until last year was Dr. Francis Hurst, professor of psychology.

Society of the Pen and Sword now has an active membership of 330. The dues are $5 and once that has been paid the person is a lifetime member.

In the past, the group has awarded one scholarship a year to an outstanding University junior, enrolled in AFROTC and seeking a military career. However, it has been decided this year that more of these scholarships will be awarded in the future.

Perpetual Trophy

Also, the group awards a perpetual trophy at the President's AFROTC Review to an AFROTC cadet who has shown leadership and outstanding potential for a career in the armed forces.

Each member of the Society of the Pen and Sword receives a pin which was designed by one of the early members. The pin is composed of a crossed pen and sword; the pen depicts the members' connection with education and the sword the connection with the defense of our country.

The president this year is Major John White who said that the group hopes to make future Bootstrappers arrival at Omaha U "less painful."

"Incoming men," Maj. White said, "have many questions about costs, housing and family problems, and without a group such as this they would have a problem getting the answers."

The faculty adviser, Bernard Behers of the CAE, said he felt the group provided an organizational benefit of military students.

The Society of Pen and Sword is sponsoring a flag football team this season and has a dinner party planned for November.

Painting to Cramp AA Classes Soon

Classes may have to be shifted to other rooms in the Applied Arts wing to finish painting the classrooms on the second floor.

The shifting of classes is necessary to allow the painters room to work and give the paint sufficient time to dry, said Clarence E. Lefler, head of buildings and grounds.

Classrooms on the first floor should be finished this week. These three classrooms have never been occupied and classes will probably meet in these rooms until the others are finished.

Painting the corridors and installing blackboards will be completed as soon as possible.

Congressional Medal Holder Will Receive Degree in June

By Roger Brown

"One's sense of duty must not lag during peacetime."

This statement by an OU bootstrapper, Lt. Col. Jack L. Treadwell, has special meaning in a time of crisis such as the United States faces now.

Like many of his fellow bootstrappers Col. Treadwell will receive a degree from the University of Omaha in education this June.

A quiet unassuming gentle-

Lt. Col. Jack L. Treadwell

man, Col. Treadwell has seen 22 years active service with the U.S. Army and will have completed 33 years by the time he retires.

Congressional Medal Holder

Holder not only of the Congressional Medal of Honor, but every decoration the army can bestow for combat on the ground; Col. Treadwell this week is attending a three-day meeting in Detroit of the 208 living congressional medal of honor winners to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the medal.

A native Oklahoman, he attended Southwestern State College at Weatherford, Okla. for two years and then enlisted in the Army in his hometown of Snyder in January of 1941.

Attitude Important

Attitude plays an important part in a man's success or failure in the Army he pointed out.

"When a young man enlists in the army, he will face situations in which he can hold back, merely follow orders, and stay out of trouble. Nobody can compel him to do anything else, and no one will try. He can content himself with doing the minimum—or he can accept his duty gladly, insist on the very best performance from himself, and take away from his military service habits of mind and body which will enrich his entire future."

In 1943 Treadwell was advanced to the grade of sergeant and went overseas to North Africa. He participated in the Sicily campaign and the invasion of Salerno, and then took part in the winter fighting in Italy, where he received a battlefield commission as a second lieutenant.

He also participated in the invasion of Anzio and assisted in the capture of Rome as an infantry platoon leader.

Cited in Germany

Colonel Treadwell was cited for the medal of honor near Nieder-Wurzback Germany March 18, 1945 while serving as Commander of Company F, 180th Infantry. He single-handedly captured six pillboxes and 18 German prisoners, paving the way for his battalion to start a major breakthrough of the Siegfried Line.

In addition to the medal of Honor, he has been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross, Silver Star, Legion of Merit, Bronze Star, with V device for Valor and one Oak Leaf Cluster and the Purple Heart with three Oak Leaf Clusters. He has also been awarded the French Croix-de-Guerre with Gold Star.

Wounded Four Times

All of his fighting was not without personal cost to Treadwell. He was wounded for the fourth time on March 30, 1945 near Rossbach, Germany and was hospitalized until March, 1946.

Colonel Treadwell again pursued his college career in 1957-58 when he attended the University of Georgia and in 1961 when he attended George Washington University. He also attended the Army War College, the capstone of the army's educational system. He feels that the Bootstrap Program at OU is a "very fine program" and that "Omaha University is better than other Universities he has attended."

Upon graduation in June, Colonel Treadwell will leave for Heidelberg Germany for a three year tour with the U.S. Army Headquarters in Europe.

Colonel Treadwell will appear on WOW-TV's 10:25 feature on Sunday night, October 28.

Bootstrappers Pay Bill For Functions, Not OU

Rumor on campus has it that the Bootstrap-sponsored coffees and dinners were being paid for by the University and the government. This is not so.

Lt. Col. E. Ratti, AFROTC director of instruction at OU, said the Bootstrap functions are financed from "welfare" funds. "This money is derived from the profits of various post-base exchanges and is credited to this fund."

"It amounts to about $1300 quarterly," he said.

"The money is used to promote the comfort and leisure of members of the Armed Forces," Col. Ratti said.

The welfare fund is controlled and administered by the campus AFROTC detachment.

"Money spent by the Bootstrappers is their own," he said, "not the University's and it is not derived from government taxes."

The only cash OU receives from Bootstrappers is in tuition and services fees. They pay non-resident rates.

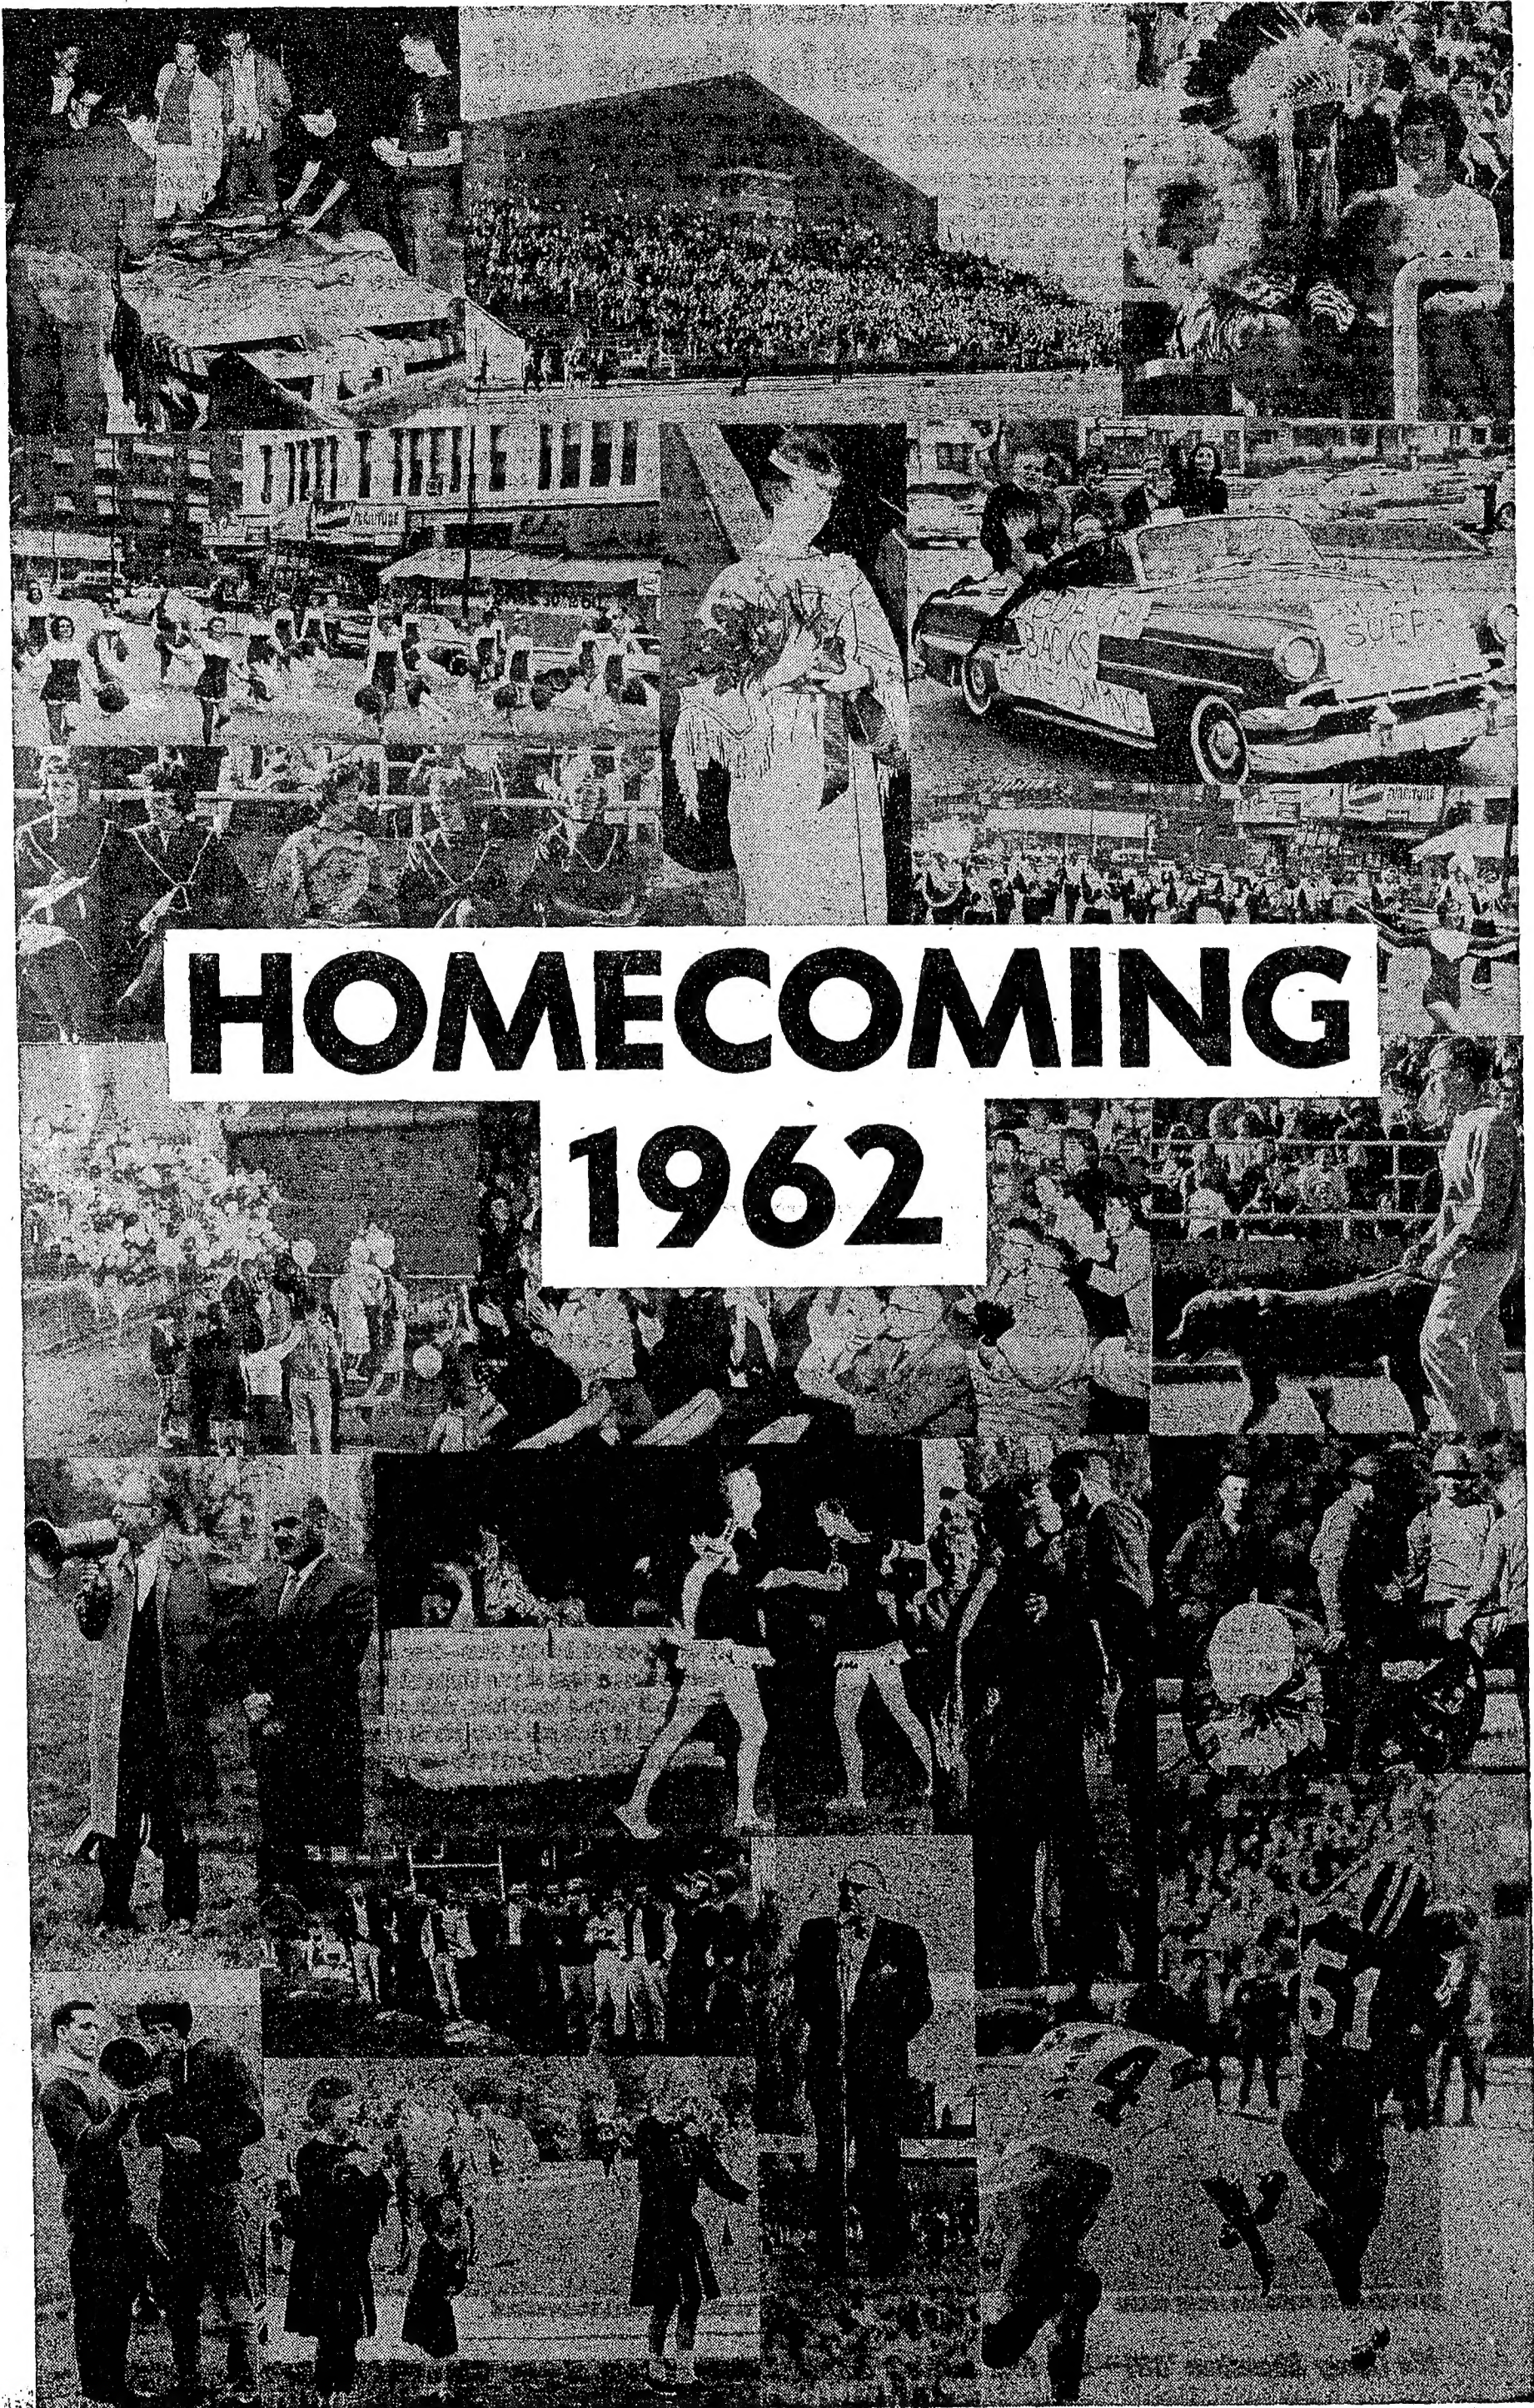

Armed forces members must pay their own travel expenses to Omaha. The only exception are the Marines who are provided with travel funds.

"The greatest difficulty the AFROTC unit encounters is spending the cash allotted to them from the welfare fund," Col. Ratti said. "Most of it must be spent, as it is not allowed to accumulate."

The hitch is—since the money must be spent on the Bootstrappers at OU—they must be able to have the opportunity to participate in whatever project the money is being used for.

For predominately Bootstrap classes, the AFROTC unit is considering the purchase of additional books to relieve the shortages on those texts already in use. The books would be paid for by cash from the welfare fund.

According to federal regulations, however, the texts would have to be housed in the AFROTC library instead of the campus library.

HOMECOMING 1962

Students Beware! Next Election Is Only 6 Months Away; Get in Shape

By Sheri Hronek

With sighs of relief, students welcomed the end of fall elections last week. Freshman are now pros at college life—anyone who can survive election week at OU is. Other classmates are fast becoming scarred veterans of the war of words.

Now that the week is past, here are a few helpful hints for the spring elections. Yes, spring elections—cheer up, people, Christmas may come but once a year, but you are blessed twice a year with elections at O. U.

Camp out over night in one of the buildings—in your first classroom of the day, if possible. This way you miss those cherry, bright-eyed campaigners who anxiously wait to tell you about their candidates—and before you have had your first cup of coffee.

There is no escaping these fanatics in the morning. They post themselves on the campus around 6:30 a.m. It's the early bird that gets the worm—and, brother, you're their worm!

Girls, wear tennis shoes. Girls who are campaigning usually wear heels—so they can't run very fast. With your tennies, you can't out distance them in no time. The only problem here is the guys. They don't wear heels (naturally), so you may not outrun them. But, say, it does wonders for your morale to have all those guys chasing you!

Bring a football helmet if possible. To get one more word in before you cross the polling limits, campaigners often blockade the entrances. Only thing to do is to shift your books, put your head down and proceed full speed ahead.

Even after you have crossed the polling limits, you're not safe. As the campaigners pick themselves up after your blockade-crashing, they "politely" ask you to vote. Shouts of "Don't forget so-and-so" and "Remember—" can be heard over the campus. Hint: wear ear plugs.

Don't delay. It's just six months until spring elections. Avoid the pre-election day rush and get into training now.

Oh, yes—if you can crash the campaigners blockades successfully, see Khrushchev—he may need you.

GATEWAY Ad Sells Policies

"We feel that the advertising in the GATEWAY was responsible for the large response to the student insurance program," said Terry Haney of the R. D. Marcotte and Associates, representing Mutual of Omaha.

"Over 440 students have enrolled in the plan, which," according to Haney, "is a very high acceptance for the first year offering. This is about 10 per cent of the full-time day students."

"At other universities around the country that have had the plan available for five or six years, the student participation runs about 48 to 50 per cent," said Haney.

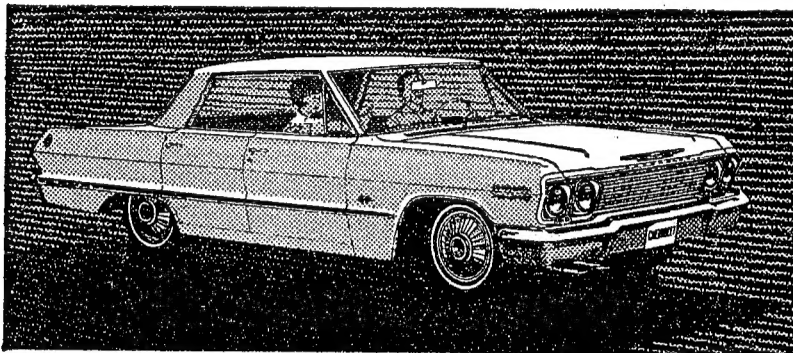

'Submerged Story,' 'Les Diabolique' Billed for Tonight

A double bill of special motion pictures will be shown tonight in the Conference Center Auditorium.

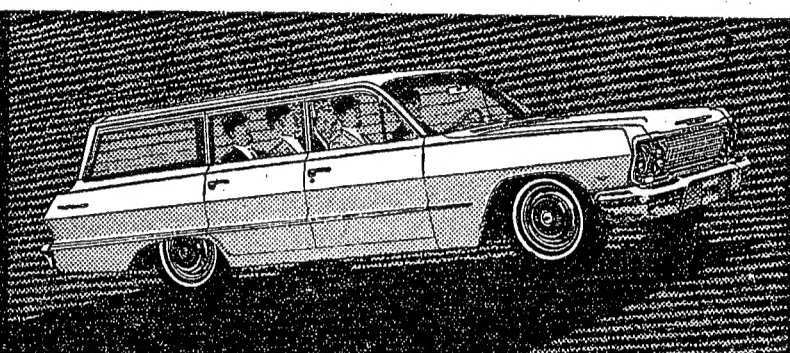

A 30-minute short subject, "Submerged Story," will be shown first. The picture deals with the historical monuments of Egypt that are to be covered by the waters of the Aswan Dam.

The feature film will be "Les Diabolique," the famous French shock film.

Six Gridders On OU Squad Are South Men

Six former Omaha South High School football players are on the 50-man University of Omaha football squad.

They are Mel Masek, Ron Eissler, Paul Limas, Jack Kiscoan, Don Crum and Walter Link.

Masek and Eissler are centers, Eissler with the No. 1 unit and Masek leading the second string.

Eissler, a 5-10, 210-pound transfer from Nebraska U., is 22. Masek is 5-10, 185 and 22. Eissler is a sophomore and Masek a senior.

Masek is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Max M. Masek, 4428 Spring.

Eissler is married and resides at 3004½ S. 17th. He is the son of Mrs. Mary Eissler of 1702½ Vinton.

Both stood out in O. U.'s first games, playing both offense and defense.

Limas, a junior, who transferred here from Doane College, is 5-9, 238. His forte is defensive middle guard and also plays at the tackle spot. Limas is one of the most recently married gridders at O. U. He lives at 1705 S. 28th. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Limas, 3118½ S. 23rd.

Jack Kiscoan, a top defensive and offensive end, is a junior. At 6-0, 190, Jack is seeking his third O. U. letter this fall. The 21-year-old Kiscoan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kiscoan, 3522 X. He's also a transfer from Nebraska.

The newest members of the South contingent at O. U. are freshmen Don Crum and Walter Link. Crum has seen a lot of action already this fall for the Indians.

Playing behind Rocket Roger Sayers at left half has its difficulties, but O. U. fans can count on hearing a lot more about Crum in future years. Crum, who is 6-0, 175, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Crum, 3120 Drexel.

Link, 5-10, 156 halfback, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Link, 2013 Elm. A four-year letterman in golf at South, this is Link's first football campaign.

Rich, Schneider Current Officers

Current officers of Alpha Epsilon Pi have been announced. They are: Louis Rich, president; Edward Schneider, vice-president; Arnold Weintraub, secretary; Natan Schwalb, treasurer; Karl Luefchuetz, member-at-large.

Pledge master Dick Cohen has announced the following pledge class: Robert Friedman, Steve Kort, Paul Kutler, Irvin Nathan, Gary Parilman, Keva Shyken and Bob Stein.

Canterbury Assn. To Hear Rev. Cross

Members of Canterbury Association were planning to attend the fall faculty-student conference at the University of Nebraska today and tomorrow, President Stu Lynn said.

"Christian Unity" is the topic for discussion.

The Rev. William Cross of Holy Trinity Church in Lincoln is slated to be the featured speaker.

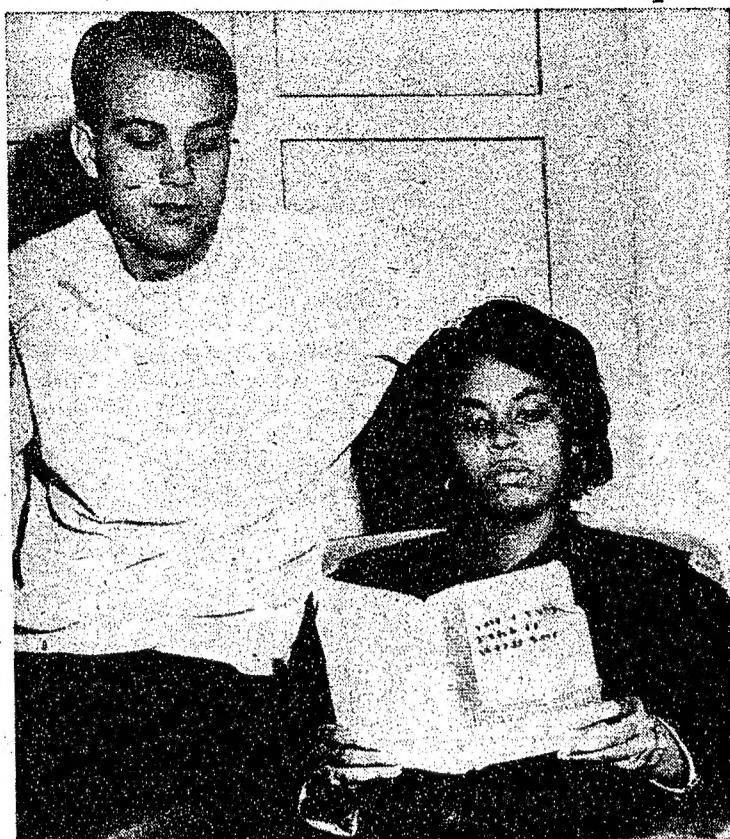

Mader, Kortwright Head Chemical Soc.

The student affiliates of the American Chemical Society will have a party Saturday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mary Ellen Isvik, 3313 Ernest Street.

The affiliates have 30 members this year.

The officers of the club are: Woody Mader, pres; Ken Kortwright, vice-pres; and Larry Hicks, sec-tres.

To Perform in OU Play

TWO OU STUDENTS appearing in the University Theater production of "You Can't Take It With You" are Judy Collins, 3011 T, and Ken Haas, 5817 Elm (picture above). Ron Bojanski, 6017 S. 36th, also has a role. The play will be presented November 1 through 3. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. in the main auditorium of the University of Omaha.

Honor Roll Boys at Homecoming

Theta Chi fraternity played host to 16 boys at last Saturday's Homecoming game against Emporia. The boys, from the Omaha Home for Boys, were taken to lunch in the O'Uampi Room, given a tour around the campus, and introduced to members of the football team.

The boys were also given Theta Chi identification cards, making them Theta Chi Honor Roll boys.

The event, held for the second consecutive year, is part of the Theta Chi service program.

60 Freshman Girls Invited to Tea Sun.

Sixty freshman women have been invited to an Alpha Lambda Delta tea Sunday.

The tea is given for freshmen who, according to guidance exams or high school records, are Lambda Delta, freshmen Women's honorary.

Requirements for membership are a 3.5 average the first semester or a 3.5 accumulative for the freshman year.

The tea will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. at the home of Miss Elizabeth Hill, Dean of Women, 5509 Harney.

Name Brewer '62-'63 Princess

Homecoming was climaxed last Friday evening at the Council Fire when Dolores Brewer, Chi Omega, was announced as the 1962-63 Homecoming Princess. Other candidates for Princess were: Midge Butters, Zeta Tau Alpha; Sue Hornish, Alpha Xi Delta; Anita Lee, Independent Students' Association; and Carolyn Kaare, Sigma Kappa.

The festivities began with a pep rally at 12:30 in the pep bowl. Classes were dismissed at 12:30. After the pep rally, registered cars assembled in Elwood Park in preparation for the parade through downtown Omaha. The parade was followed by a Snake Dance and the TGIH (Thank Goodness It's Homecoming) Dance in the O'Uampi Room. Chuck Halda and the Cimmarons played for the TGIH Dance.

Following the Council Fire at 6 p.m., over 1900 people attended the Homecoming Dance at Peony Park, featuring Count Basie and his Orchestra.

Intermission ceremonies at the dance included the introduction of the Homecoming Princess, presentation of a dozen red roses by President Milo Bail and the presentation of a gift from the OU Alumni Association by Don Masement. Winners of the car competition in the parade were also announced.

Cutest Pan-Ugliest Man Candidates Named for UCS

Candidates for the annual Cutest Pan-Ugliest Man contest were named this week. From left to right, they are: Terry O'Connor, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Laima Runcis, Sigma Kappa; Joe Morocco, Theta Chi; Claudia May, Alpha Xi Delta; and Lynn Olson, Pi Kappa Alpha.

Kathy Bowman, Chi Omega; Janet Grossman, Zeta Tau Alpha; Gary Hannibal, Lambda Chi Alpha; and Richard Russell, Tau Kappa Epsilon, were not available for the picture.

The contest is sponsored by the University Service Club to raise money for the United Community Services.

There is no limit to the number of "votes" a student may cast for a candidate. Each penny collected counts as one vote.

The balloting will continue through next week with the winners to be announced at a Friday afternoon dance in the Student Center. The winners' organizations are to be presented with trophies.

The OU contest last year netted $1,730.88 for UCS.

Slumber Party Has 'Pillow Talk' Theme

The Zeta Tau Alpha pledge class is hosting a slumber party for the active chapter tomorrow evening.

The party will be at the home of Zeta Advisor, Mrs. Sally Jensen. Theme of the slumber party is "Pillow Talk."

Open Bidding: No Comment

"No comment."

This is the prevailing attitude of the sorority presidents and Dean of Women Elizabeth Hill concerning "continuous open bidding."

Continuous open bidding is a system for recruiting new members into a sorority being used for the first time at Omaha University.

This system was adopted by the Panhellenic Council several weeks ago. Since then the Council has made "no comment" on its effectiveness or on the system itself.

The purpose of continuous open bidding is to help the sororities fill their pledge quotas. This system allows a girl to pledge a sorority without going through formal rush.

Continuous open bidding is not considered a step toward eliminating formal rush week, and in an earlier interview, Dean Hill stated that there was no assurance that continuous open bidding would become a "permanent policy" of OU sororities.

In a recent interview, Dean Hill said:

"I have no further comment. Every new pledge has been announced. So far as I know it has been satisfactory. The Panhellenic Council will meet soon and anything to be added will be done after the meeting."

In regard to continuous bidding, Dolores Brewer, president of Chi Omega, said:

"I see both advantages and disadvantages to this system. I think there should be some more satisfactory way of equalizing the number in sororities. The biggest disadvantage is that it is hard for a girl to come into a sorority after missing several pledge lessons. If done at all, it should be done as soon after formal rush as possible."

Sue Hornish, president of Alpha Xi Delta, said: "I have no comment."

Carolyn Karre, president of Sigma Kappa, said: "I have no comment."

Gail Grove, president of Zeta Tau Alpha, the only sorority to fill its quota during formal rush week, said:

"I have no comment."

Hallowe'en Party Scheduled for Sat.

The Newman Club will hold its Hallowe'en Party at 7:30 Saturday night. The party will be held at the Chic Inn at 77th and Cass Sts. Members are invited to come "stag" or bring dates.

Pool Champ Mosconi Shows How Game Should Be Played

The OUampi room took on an air of emptiness Wednesday as students poured out to see the magnificent billiards display put on by Willie Mosconi, Brunswick Advisory Billiards Champion and world's champion billiards champion.

The three-level stands around the table were packed with hundreds of students who watched Mr. Mosconi defeat OU's Mike Coughlin in the 3 p.m. billiards match. Coughlin and Tony Weidenfeller were the finalists who won the chance to play the champion, after defeating six other OU students in playoff games. Weidenfeller played in the evening match.

After the first match, Mosconi showed numerous tricks and basic fundamentals designed for the beginner.

Mashed Potatoes
His billiards days began when he started shooting potatoes on his father's billiard table. To keep his son from practicing so much, Mr. Mosconi took the balls away from Willie. This didn't stop Willie. He found several round potatoes and when his parents came home, they found him playing billiards with the potatoes. What followed he leaves unsaid.

In the last 18 years, Mosconi has held the world's title in pocket billiards against some of the finest men ever to grace a billiard table.

One of the most spectacular records he holds is a high run score of 526 which established a new world's exhibition record. This mark was set by beating his previous record of 365.

His excellent shooting was followed by a good hand of applause. He provided rapid-fire comments as he went through his shots.

Willie is well known with his trick shooting which includes the feat of pocketing rolling balls and his "machine gun" shot which knocks the cue ball off of each of 15 balls before counting on a corner pocket shot.

His demonstration showed that billiards is not a difficult game if attention is paid to the basic fundamentals. His style reveals that he stands naturally at the table, holds his head of the cue in his line of aim, keeps the cue as level as possible, makes a firm bridge with his left hand and uses English only when he feels that the play requires it.

No Plane—No Trip For AFROTC Dept.

The AFROTC Department's scheduled base visitation to Carswell AFB, Texas this weekend has been canceled.

Commandant of Cadets, Captain Joseph Davis, said that Offutt AFB could not secure a plane for the AFROTC department to use.

Carswell AFB is near Fort Worth, Texas, and is the home of the Air Force's supersonic bomber, the B-58 Hustler.

Captain Davis said that the base visitations give cadets an idea of the type of situation that they will be in if they become Air Force officers.

Sinclair Surprised, Application Accepted

By Jim Mone

A desire to work with athletes and learn new training techniques helped Jack Sinclair, a senior at the University of Omaha, get the job of athletic trainer for O.U. this year.

Jack, 21, was "really surprised" when the acceptance of his application came through shortly before the football season by Virgil Yelkin, Athletic Director.

Jack's sporting career began at Omaha Holy Name where he lettered four years in baseball and three years in football both sports being his favorites.

Injury Stymies Sports
During the summer preceding his enrollment at O.U., Jack received a hairline fracture of the scull while working in construction on the Interstate Highway System. The injury kept him out of football for two years but he did play baseball his freshman year.

"I decided to hit the books in my junior year rather than participate in sports," he added.

Jack is majoring in general science, with emphasis in biology. After graduation this coming June, he plans to attend a physical therapy clinic at Kansas City, Iowa University or the Mayo Clinic.

He wants to work in a rehabilitation clinic for a few years until a special job comes along, "that is if Uncle Sam doesn't interfere," he added. If the service does call, Jack wants to get into the Medical Corps in the Armed Forces.

Clauseen Returns to Alma Mater, To Help Borsheim With Basketball

By Ken McEwen

A familiar yet unfamiliar face has been added to the OU coaching staff. A familiar face to those who have followed OU basketball for the past three years. A familiar face to those who have watched American Legion baseball for the past two years or for those who go to a local basketball game to jeer the referee.

It is unfamiliar to many freshmen, of course, even those freshmen who think that they had all of the coaching personnel down pat in their minds.

OU basketball fans will recognize Don Clauseen as the assistant coach for the basketballers in the 1958-59 and 1960 seasons. During these years he also assisted Coach Virgil Yelkin with the baseball duties.

Don has piloted the Phillips-American Legion baseball team for the last two years; the past year to a runner-up birth in the State ratings. For those who go to basketball games to jeer instead of cheer, they'll find Clauseen again. He has officiated at the high school city tournament at OU for the past seven years. He has also reffed in the state tournaments in Lincoln and has been blowing a whistle at many of the state college games in the area.

Some of the University personnel will remember Don from back in 1950-1954 when he played baseball and basketball for OU. He played center on the basketball team and first base and outfield in baseball. And as reports go on Don's hitting ability, from men who watched him play, he was pretty good. He graduated with a B.S. in Education in 1954.

To answer the question of the freshmen and some of the upperclassmen of why he is back, it is because he is helping Coach Jim Borsheim with the coaching duties on the court. Don commented that this year's team is "definitely one of the better teams that the University has had, barring injury and sickness." He said that it is the tallest yet and that prospects for a good season are "very encouraging."

The 34 year old Omahan played semi-pro baseball after graduation and also had a try out with the Milwaukee Hawks, now the St. Louis Hawks Professional basketball team.

rations to get them ready for games and practices.

"I did not know too much about taping when I started but I received help from one of the coaches. In case of injury to any athletes, I am allowed to give only first aid and if the injury proves serious, I call the doctor," he added.

Being new to many of the boys, Jack feels that they treat him very well.

His feelings of the O.U. grid team reflect the hopes of many.

"I think the Indians should go the rest of the way undefeated, although St. Benedicts and Pittsburg State may be big hurdles to clear. I also feel that O.U. will take the C.I.C. title this year."

Keta Tau Alpha forfeited to Sigma Kappa on Wednesday, Oct. 17th, and the Unaffiliated-ISA game scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 18th resulted in a double forfeit.

Resurgent Injuns Go After Ravens' Scalp; Emporia Falls as OU Offense Finally Jells

Omaha U's battling band of Indians take to the road tomorrow for the first time in more than a month.

OU completed a four game home stand last Saturday in which they won two, lost one, and tied one.

The Indians, now 4-1-1 for the season, will be entertained in their second conference game tomorrow at St. Benedict's in Atchinson, Kansas.

Coach Al Caniglia's club is still in the thick of the battle for the conference championship, but they face an uphill struggle. Fort Hays apparently has the inside track, having beaten defending champion marks in the nation.

In contrast the OU offense has rolled up an average of 256 yards per game rushing and an his 51 yard burst had set it up.

Artie Reynolds added the other TD when he scored from 22 yards out for his first collegiate score. Reynolds added a fine blocking game to his of-

Pittsburg State and tied OU's championship favorites. The Indians must climb over some high hurdles to grab the top rung. Besides St. Benedict's, they must face Washburn at Topeka and Pittsburg at home in the season finale.

St. Benedict's have yet to see their first win this season, having lost three and tied one. OU scouts Describe the Ravens as a team that can knock off any team at any time. They reportedly have the material for a good team but don't seem to be able to jell.

Benedict's have lost to Washburn (34-13), Pittsburg State (34-14), and Northeast Missouri State (23-12). Their tie game was against Southwest Missouri, 13-13.

Both teams will out to break a 2-2 tie in the series the past four years.

Scalp No. 4

The Indians returned to the victory column last Saturday as they pleased a Homecoming crowd of some 5,300 with a 33-7 romp past Emporia State.

The Indians rolled up 458 yards total offense and used a corps of swift backs to advantage over the weak Hornet line.

Quarterback Carl Meyers padded his position as second leading total offense man in the CIC with 109 yards through the air and 76 on the ground including a 51 yard jaunt which set up a third quarter Indian touchdown.

Louie Miloni scored twice for the Indians on a 13 yard gallop in the first quarter and a 57 yard screen pass from Meyers just before the first half ended.

Omaha's first score came on a 7 yard Meyers to Paul Blazeovich pass in the first quarter after an Indian drive had apparently stalled.

The Omahans took to the showers at halftime with a comfortable 19-0 lead.

The OU scoring in the second half came from Meyers on a 10 yard dash around end after ground. The ponderous OU line has held opponents to an average of only 89.6 yards per game on the ground, one of the best fensive performance as he showed OU coaches that relief for the pony backs is in sight.

Tough defense

Coach Don Watchorn's rugged defensive line held the Hornets to a mere 13 yards on the average of 103 yards per game through the air.

The main OU weakness, pass defense, improved in the Emporia game, but a late drought let the Hornets roll up 202 yards in the passing game. OU has leaked for an average of 172 yards per game through the air.

Rocket Roger Sayers returned to the Omaha lineup and contributed 27 yards on three carries. Lee Miller gained 70 yards on the ground while standout Reynolds added 40 on four carries.

A new speedster was unveiled late in the game when freshman Richard Combs came off the OU bench and contributed a 22 yard run which nearly set up a score, and later he prevented an Emporia score when he dragged down fleet Reuben Early after the Hornet sprinter had rambled 67 yards with a pass.

The win gave the resurgent Omahans a 4-1-1 mark and a new shot at the conference title as Fort Hays upset Pittsburg State, 25-20.
